

SFCM GUITAR DEPARTMENT MANUAL

2022-2023

INTRODUCTION

Welcome to the San Francisco Conservatory of Music Guitar Department. The purpose of this manual is to describe all functions of the department and its student requirements. The manual was written by the chair, David Tanenbaum, in consultation with faculty members Marc Teicholz, Meng Su and Early Music specialist Richard Savino. It is intended for potential students and as a guide for incoming and current guitar students.

MISSION STATEMENT

The San Francisco Conservatory of Music Guitar Department seeks to create a vibrant, supportive environment to help prepare talented classical guitar students for their musical careers.

PHILOSOPHY

For students to become excellent guitarists as well as interesting, expressive artists who can function successfully in the professional world, we feel they must be given as broad a range of skills as possible. Most successful professional guitarists live a varied musical life. Besides performing, many guitarists help to create new repertoire by working with composers and arranging music originally written for other instruments. Some even compose themselves. Many also play early music on original instruments. Most guitarists are involved in some kind of ensemble work. Almost all professional classical guitarists teach and engage in other academic work that requires strong writing and oral skills. Some business acumen is necessary, and performing confidence is essential.

The Guitar Department curriculum is structured to directly reflect that reality. A cycle of classes encompassing Transcription and Arrangement, Technique/Sight Reading, Pedagogy, and Basso Continuo for Guitar is specifically designed to broaden your range of skills. Our Ensemble program is rigorous, and playing chamber music is also welcomed on juries and recitals. Guitar students accompanying singers in a full recital every fall, and the Historical Performance Emphasis trains a select group of four students in early music instrumental skills. The Composing for Guitar class helps you develop that skill.

Besides ensemble class, there are many opportunities to play with other instrumentalists. Increasingly, our guitar students are working with student composers to create new pieces. Furthermore, because stylistic breadth is an essential ingredient in professional guitar life, the first two juries require a performance of at least one piece in all five historical styles-Renaissance, Baroque, Classical, Romantic and Modern. As you progress you can narrow your focus, so that the 2nd graduate jury has no stylistic restrictions and can be a specialization in one area.

In sum, we have drawn up the following Departmental Objectives:

- To help guitar students acquire the technical skills necessary to expertly handle our five hundred years of music.
- To help students become comfortable performing as both soloists and chamber musicians.
- To create stylistically informed interpreters.
- To create a structure wherein students can grow and excel in the areas of our repertoire where their passions lie.
- To help students create their own repertoire, through transcriptions and working with composers.
- To gain knowledge and experience in the art of teaching through discussion, observation, performance in master classes and a Pedagogy class.

GENERAL INFORMATION

DEPARTMENTAL COMMUNICATION

Each semester begins with a department meeting. During the year I communicate to the department through frequent memos and call meetings whenever they are needed. I also organize, with the T.A., all department recitals and other departmental activities. Issues can be brought to me at any time, and you should always feel welcome to consult with any of the guitar teachers.

The department has a graduate Teaching Assistantship. This Assistant mostly helps with logistics, but there is occasional teaching involved as well. Applications are accepted each spring for the following year. Because the T.A is in charge of lending and caring for the extensive instrument collection that lives in room 535 -which is separate from the Harris Collection- that student needs to be well known to the department. Therefore the T.A. is always a student who has already been at the school for at least a year. This year Mario To will be the T.A., and he can be reached at Mario.to@sfc.edu

PERFORMANCE OPPORTUNITIES

DEPARTMENT RECITALS

There are eight Guitar Department Recitals (GDR) this year. You are encouraged to perform frequently. Repertoire for the GDR's must be approved by your teacher, and the program must be submitted to me or the T.A. one week before the recital. Since each ensemble must perform at least once per semester, priority is given to ensembles in scheduling the later department recitals. The October 26 GDR is our annual collaboration with the Voice Department, resulting in a full program of songs accompanied by guitar. Please dress respectfully for Department Recitals and guitar master classes: no jeans or sneakers.

RESIDENCIES

With the new facilities available at Bowes, we have instigated a regular guitar residency program, featuring two-week visits by top guitarists. This academic year Sérgio Assad will be with us November 7-19 and David Russell will join March 20-30. During the residencies each student will get a lesson with the visiting teacher, and there will be many other activities as well. One GDR is scheduled during each residency, so the visiting artist can help students prepare and then hear the performances.

STUDENT CONCERTOS

The guitar department holds a competition every other year and the winner is soloist with the Conservatory Orchestra during the following year. Students should choose a concerto that has a piano reduction. Most major concertos are acceptable for this competition, but you should check with me if there is any question.

The concerto competition will not occur during this academic year.

MASTER CLASSES

There are several master classes each year. Master class participation is limited to Conservatory students. If more than five students want to play in a master class, we will hold auditions, giving priority to those students who are closer to graduating. That priority, combined with the audition and the need to balance the repertoire for the class, all factor in the master class programming. Students are permitted to audition for two master classes a year. We guarantee every guitar major a chance to play in one master class during their time here.

A little history: The Conservatory has had nearly every major guitarist teach here over the years, including a rare three day class with Julian Bream in 1981. The first ever guitar master class in our Oak street building was a five hour event held by John Williams, on October 20, 2006.

Master classes this year will be taught by Sérgio Assad, Jason Vieaux, Zoran Dukic and David Russell.

SPECIAL EVENTS

The Bay Area is arguably the most active classical guitar area in the U.S. The magazines Guitar Player, Classical Guitar and Acoustic Guitar all originate here, and the Guitar Solo store is close by. The Omni series, the oldest and biggest classical guitar series in the U.S. is here, there are guitar societies in San Francisco and the South Bay and many smaller events throughout the Bay Area. I will keep you informed about the rich variety of performances and competitions taking place.

EQUIPMENT

The Conservatory owns many standard classical guitars, steel string guitars, electric guitars, an acoustic/electric bass, a bass amp and three classical guitars with pickups that are perfect for gigs. The collection includes two Rubios, a Smallman, a Brune, a Pepe Romero Jr, and a Guissani. We also own AER and Trace Elliott acoustic amps and the following early instruments: a seven course lute, two vihuelas, a terz guitar, two Baroque guitars, two Romantic era guitars and two theorbos. We have more recently acquired new guitars by Stephan Connor, Glen Canin, Erez Perelman, Randy Angella, Otto Volwinkel, José Oribé and four guitars by José Rubio.

All of the modern instruments are kept in the guitar room (535) and are managed by the T.A. The early instruments are kept in early music lockers, and they are shared by the HPE students. Conservatory students are welcome to use all of the instruments and amps, but they are responsible for care of the instruments when they are using them. Damage to the guitars must be repaired at the expense of the student responsible.

The Harris Guitar Collection, a remarkable collection of historic guitars, is housed at the school. Included are a Le Cote, a Torres, a Hauser I, Fleta I, Friederich and many more. Students will have limited access to these guitars. We are working on protocols to increase student access to these instruments as Covid restrictions lessen. John Harris is the collection curator, and he will hold regular sessions where you can learn about and play these historic guitars. You can read about the collection at <https://sfcu.edu/harris-foundation/harris-guitar-collection>

MAJOR STUDY AND REQUIREMENTS

PRIVATE LESSONS

We will make every effort for you to work with the teacher you choose, including rearranging class staffing to accommodate teacher loads. In this way, your first choices are usually met. You receive a 50 minute lesson each week of the school year. It is not the teacher's responsibility to make up any lessons you miss unless you provide at least 24 hours notice, have a valid medical reason or an extraordinary circumstance. Otherwise we are committed to making sure that you get all of your lessons. We permit one studio switch per semester: in other words, if you and a guitar student in a different studio agree, you can take one lesson with each other's teacher.

When faculty members go on tour, arrangements will be made between you and your teacher to either make the lessons up later or to use a substitute. Each of us is responsible for dealing with our own touring schedule, and will tell students about tours as far in advance as possible.

Any change of major teacher has to occur in consultation with the Chair, the Dean and both faculty members, and will not be done during a semester except in extraordinary circumstances.

The three main teachers are Meng Su, Marc Teicholz and myself.

DEGREE RECITALS

Candidates for the Bachelor's degree must perform a senior recital of 50 minutes of music, while candidates for the Master's degree must perform two graduate recitals of 60 minutes of music, including a major concerto. Here are some other guidelines:

- A limited amount of chamber music can be included in degree recitals with the approval of the major teacher.
- At least two thirds of the recital must be memorized.
- The recital should contain music learned during the academic year in which it is played; at the discretion of the major teacher some older repertoire can be brought back, but recitals and juries cannot include music previously performed on another jury or recital, or repertoire used for credit in the Guitar Ensemble class.
- Recitals are graded independently pass/fail, and they are factored into the studio grade for the semester in which they occur.
- It is the student's responsibility to arrange and publicize the recital.
- The recital should be done when the major teacher can attend.

JURIES

Undergraduate students are required to perform a jury at the end of each year of study. Graduate students must complete two juries, which are normally scheduled at the end of each year of study. The juries are heard by the guitar department faculty. Any part of the jury that is failed must be performed again by the end of the following semester. Failing the same jury twice results in dismissal from the school. Here are some particulars about the jury process:

- ~You may begin the jury with a piece of your choosing, but then the faculty will select the remaining material. The major teacher will defer this selection to the other faculty.
- ~Juries may include some chamber music at the discretion of the major teacher, but this must not duplicate any work being done in the Guitar Ensemble class or another chamber music class in the school. Ensemble music can only take up more than one third of the jury with the approval of the entire guitar faculty. All ensemble players must be present at the jury.
- ~At least two-thirds of juries and recitals must be performed from memory. This applies to all guitar students at all levels, except for HPE students, who may read all of the early music. Any exception to this rule must be approved by the entire guitar faculty.
- ~Each jury must consist of entirely new jury repertoire.
- ~Pieces are generally performed without repeats in juries, but you can count repeats in the timing of your pieces.
- ~Juries can include repertoire performed on a previous Evaluation.
- ~Please note that you will get copies of the faculty comments on your jury, but these are internal Conservatory documents and not quotes to be posted on social media or resums.

PROGRAM NOTES

Program notes of at least two single-spaced typed pages must be handed in to the major teacher before each degree recital and jury. This requirement helps develop your writing skills, makes sure that you are well informed about the music you are playing, and prepares you for the real-life task of submitting program notes to presenters. The notes should be colorful, interesting, informative and well-written. Every piece that you are playing must be addressed in the notes. Your teacher will ask for revisions until the notes meet these criteria, and you will not pass the jury or degree recital until this requirement is met. Any teacher may be consulted when you are researching program notes. You should send one electronic copy to your major teacher and one to the chair.

EVALUATIONS

At the end of the semester in which they are not doing a jury (usually the fall semester) undergraduates are required to perform an Evaluation for the guitar faculty. This requirement serves to provide a progress report on your work, and the results will be factored into the semester's grade. You will receive written comments from each member of the faculty.

- Freshmen and sophomores play for five minutes and, juniors and seniors for ten minutes.
- The Evaluation repertoire, which will be selected with your major teacher, must be solo and cannot duplicate that of any previous jury, but there are no other specific requirements.
- Evaluations must be performed from memory, except for certain contemporary scores that are approved by the major teacher.
- No program notes are required for Evaluations.

PERFORMANCE REQUIREMENTS and REPERTOIRE GUIDELINES

Since it is impossible, especially with the guitar, to completely codify different levels, the repertoire suggestions are only guidelines that are intended to give a general sense of repertoire level for each year. The periods are defined as follows:

Renaissance: 1500-1600, including Elizabethan England

Baroque: 1600-1750, including Scarlatti

Classical: 1750-1840, including Sor, Carcassi, Giuliani

Romantic: 1840-1950, including Mertz, Regondi and the Segovia repertoire.

Contemporary: 1920-present, excluding the above

AUDITION: Applicants are urged to audition live at the Conservatory or at the Conservatory out-of-town auditions. If you live outside Northern California you may submit an unedited video or audio tape in lieu of a personal audition. Applicants must play one work from memory in each of the following categories, totaling 15 minutes:

~ A transcription of a work written before 1750.

~ A Classical or Romantic work (including the Segovia repertoire) written for guitar

~ A 20th century work written for guitar.

PROFESSIONAL STUDIES DIPLOMA IN INSTRUMENTAL PERFORMANCE

Here is copy directly from the Conservatory website about this diploma. "The Professional Studies Diploma is a one-year non-degree program designed to provide focused studies for young artists in the pre-professional stages of their careers. It is intended for students who wish to study on an advanced level and to assist them in preparing for major competitions, auditions, and performance careers by emphasizing individual instruction and performance opportunities. With the exception of private lessons, the curriculum is designed by the student in consultation with their major teacher, in accordance with the specific career goals of the student. This affords time for intense personal study, and the freedom to choose electives, ensembles, and independent study projects directly related to professional goals. In addition to 9 credits of private instruction and 9 credits of ensemble/independent study credit, candidates for the Professional Studies Diploma must complete 6 elective credits." Professional Studies Guitar students must complete a one hour jury and recital with professional level repertoire.

HISTORICAL PERFORMANCE EMPHASIS

Historical Performance Emphasis in Plucked Strings: Vihuela, Lute, Theorbo, and Baroque Guitar

General Information

This program, directed by Richard Savino, is limited to 4 students. On the Undergraduate level, the HPE applies only to Junior and Senior years, except with permission of Richard Savino and David Tanenbaum.

Early 19th century Sonata movement or Variation piece

Note: Students at all levels must complete a Continuo class before enrolling in Baroque Ensemble

CLASSES

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Conservatory Guitar Department offers six ongoing guitar classes or class cycles. The staffing of classes can vary and the classes themselves change somewhat with different instructors. Teachers will provide a class syllabus and written notice of the class requirements on the first day of class. Occasionally classes are canceled due to small enrollment. Attendance is expected, and unexcused absences will affect your grade.

GUITAR PERFORMANCE

This is an ongoing class that meets for an hour a week. It provides students with an opportunity to perform frequently, but also focuses on aspects of performance such as stage basics, programming and speaking to audiences. Students must walk on stage, bow and speak to the audience before each class performance. Three concert reviews are due each semester; these reviews focus on performance aspects rather than the actual playing.

GUITAR ENSEMBLE

This class meets for two hours a week. During the first week of the class, as well as in the department meeting, small ensembles are organized from within the class. The ensemble stays together for the semester and is coached throughout the semester. Each ensemble must perform for at least 5 minutes in the class and on a department recital or other in-school performance venue. These small ensembles provide an opportunity to play with other instrumentalists, who are encouraged to join and receive credit for Guitar Ensemble class. During the Ensemble Class time itself is spent rehearsing large ensemble pieces and with the coaching of small ensembles. The class time is also used for sight-reading. You can get chamber music experience outside of the Guitar Department by auditioning for the Chamber Music program, New Music Ensemble or the Baroque Ensemble.

HISTORY AND LITERATURE CYCLE

This is a two-year class cycle that examines the guitar repertoire in depth. Each period is covered for an entire semester except for the Classic and Romantic periods, which are taught together in one semester. In each class you will write papers, play music of the period, and acquire special skills. In the Renaissance class you will learn French and Italian tablature reading as well as basic lute technique, and play period music on the lute. In the Baroque class you will extend your tablature skills and learn continuo. In Classic/Romantic Lit. the techniques and instruments of Sor and his contemporaries are experienced, while in the 20th Century Literature class you will experience the extraordinary growth and reach of the guitar from Segovia's work until the present day.

Instruments from the Harris Collection will be used in these classes when appropriate. This year Richard Savino will teach Renaissance Lit. in the fall, and Baroque Lit. in the spring.

ELECTIVE CYCLE

This two-year cycle has the following classes as components.

Transcription/Arrangement-one semester

Pedagogy-one semester (required)

Basso Continuo for Guitar - one semester

Technique and Sight Reading for Guitar - one semester

Pedagogy Class is required for all guitar majors. Graduate students who have taken the class as undergraduates at the Conservatory will not be required to take it again. Descriptions of each of these classes is available in the Conservatory Catalogue. This year Marc Teicholz will teach Transcription/Arrangement-one semester in the fall, and Technique and Sight Reading in the spring.

HISTORICAL PLUCKED STRINGS

This class consists of Richard Savino teaching lessons to the four HPE students on their various instruments. Students will work on solo repertoire as well as the continuo projects they are involved in.

COMPOSING FOR GUITAR

This class, taught by guitarist-composer Stefan Cwik, meets in the spring. This year, the renowned guitarist/composer Sérgio Assad will have a role in the class.

CONCLUSION

There's a lot to do. However, we believe that our multifaceted approach will help aspiring guitarists become fine overall musicians. At the end of your Conservatory training, you will have developed your skills as soloist, chamber musician, arranger, teacher, and even writer-in short, the skills necessary to become a productive and fulfilled musician in today's world.
